A new literary prize in honour of the late Harold Pinter is being launched by English PEN and will look, in Pinter's own words, to reward a writer who casts an "unflinching, unswerving" gaze upon the world, and who shows a "fierce intellectual determination ... to define the real truth of our lives and our societies".

An ardent defender of imprisoned and persecuted writers, Pinter was a vice-president of English PEN and active in many of the organisation's campaigns, including a visit to Turkey in 1985 with Arthur Miller on behalf of the Writers in Prison Committee, when he was escorted by Orhan Pamuk. He died last December aged 78.
